

Updating workshops on the Journey Through the Arts website

This guide covers everything you need to keep the workshop listings on the website up to date. You do not need to know anything technical. If something goes wrong or does not make sense, email Brent.

How it works

The website shows a list of upcoming workshops on the homepage and on the For Kids and For Adults pages. Each workshop is a small form you fill in. When you save it, the website rebuilds itself and the change appears a few minutes later.

Workshops disappear from the site on their own once their date has passed. You do not need to delete old ones.

Prices are never shown on the website. People email you for pricing.

Logging in

1. Go to app.pagescms.org.
2. Click Continue with email, enter jttacabin@gmail.com, and enter the code that is emailed to you.
3. Click jtta-website.
4. In the left menu, click Workshops.

You will see the list of workshops, newest first.

Adding a new workshop

1. Click Add an entry (top right of the Workshops list).
2. Fill in the form. Each field has a short note under it explaining what it is for. The fields are:
 - Title – what the workshop is called, as you want it to appear on the site.
 - Audience – Kids or Adults. This decides which page it appears on.
 - Category – the kind of workshop (for example painting, printmaking, clay).
 - Card colour – the colour of the card on the site. Any choice is fine; it is just for variety.

- Date (first session) – the first (or only) day of the workshop. Pick it from the calendar.
- Number of sessions – how many weeks it runs. Use 1 for a one-off workshop.
- Start time (24-hour) and End time (24-hour).
- Minimum age and Maximum age – for kids workshops these are usually between 6 and 13. For adult workshops use 18 and 99.
- Short description – two or three sentences about what participants will make and do.
- What's provided – materials you supply.
- What to bring – anything participants need to bring, if anything.
- Availability – see below.
- Special workshop – turn this on to give the workshop a dark, eye-catching card on the homepage. Use it for at most one or two workshops at a time.

3. Click Save.

Keep titles simple. Letters, numbers, spaces and hyphens are safest.

Availability: spots open, almost full, waitlist, full

The Availability field controls what visitors see:

- Spots open – normal. The card shows an "Email to register" link.
- Almost full – the card gets an amber "Almost full" tag. The register link still works.
- Waitlist – the card shows "Waitlist" and the link changes to "Email to join waitlist".
- Full – the card shows "Session full" and the register link is removed.

Change the status whenever registrations change. It is the quickest edit you will make.

Editing a workshop

- 1. Open Workshops and click the one you want to change.
- 2. Make your changes.
- 3. Click Save.

Removing a workshop

You only need to do this if a workshop is cancelled. Past workshops drop off the site automatically.

1. Open Workshops.
 2. Find the workshop and use the Delete option (in the menu at the end of its row, or in the menu beside Save at the top of its edit page).
 3. Confirm.

After you save

The website rebuilds itself. Allow 1 to 3 minutes, then refresh the page on the site to see the change. If you refresh and still see the old version, wait another minute and try again; your browser sometimes shows you a saved copy.

If the site does not update

Occasionally a save will not show up on the site. The usual reasons are:

- A required field was left empty. Open the workshop again and check every field has something in it.
- The date is in the past. The site hides past workshops, so a workshop dated last week will never appear.
- The rebuild has not finished yet. Give it ten minutes.

If it still has not appeared after ten minutes, email Brent with the workshop title. He gets an automatic notice when something breaks, so he may already be on it.

Things to leave alone

- Anything in Pages CMS outside the Workshops list and the Media section. The other parts of the site are updated by Brent.
 - Photos in the Media section can be uploaded, but they will not appear on the site until Brent places them. Send him the photo and say where it should go.
